Reasons Why the Company Nominates the Nominee as an Outside Director, Expected Roles, etc.
He has abundant experience and great insight into overall corporate management, through being involved in the management of a company globally conducting a wide range of business, such as materials, machinery, and energy, with a central focus on iron and steel, as well as abundant business experience in fields of research on materials and technical development, in particular. In addition, he serves as a member of both the Nominating Advisory Committee and the Compensation Advisory Committee of the Company. Based on the foregoing, the Company has selected him as a nominee for the office of Outside Director because the Company expects that he will contribute to supervising management from an objective perspective that is independent from the execution of business and ensuring transparency and fairness in the consideration of Officers' personnel affairs and remuneration, and the Company considers him to be qualified for the office of Outside Director in light of the Company's "Policy to Nominate Candidates for Director and Audit &amp; Supervisory Board Member, etc." While the Company has a business relationship with Kobe Steel, Ltd., where he previously served as an executive, involving matters such as the purchase and sale of the products, the value of each transaction is negligible—less than 1% of the net sales of the Company and the net sales of Kobe Steel, Ltd. Therefore, the fact above does not influence his independence.

Reasons Why the Company Nominates the Nominee as an Outside Director, Expected Roles, etc.

Reasons Why the Company Nominates the Nominee as an Outside Director, Expected Roles, Reasons Why the Company Has Determined that the Nominee is Capable of Conducting the Duties Appropriately as an Outside Director, etc.
She has deep insight and a global perspective as a university professor whose main fields of research are management strategy and corporate governance. Based on the foregoing, the Company has selected her as a nominee for the office of Outside Director because the Company expects that she will contribute to further improvements in supervisory functions of management from an objective perspective that is independent from the execution of business, and the Company considers her to be qualified for the office of Outside Director in light of the Company's "Policy to Nominate Candidates for Director and Audit &amp; Supervisory Board Member, etc." She has no experience concerning company management other than acting as an Outside Director; however, the Company has determined that she is capable of conducting the duties appropriately as an Outside Director because of the reasons above. While the Company has a business relationship with Kyoto University, where she serves as a professor and Deputy Executive Vice-President, involving matters such as joint research, the value of each transaction is negligible—less than 1% of the net sales of the Company and the ordinary revenue of the university. In addition, the Company makes donations to the university amounting to less than 500,000 yen annually, which is also negligible. Therefore, none of the facts above influences her independence.

BUSINESS REPORT
(from April 1, 2025 to March 31, 2026)

1. Matters Concerning Current Status of Corporate Group

(1) Progression of Business and its Results

Net Sales	5,110,171 million yen (an increase of 9.2% compared with the preceding fiscal year)
Operating Income	418,173 million yen (an increase of 30.4% compared with the preceding fiscal year)
Ordinary Income	431,274 million yen (an increase of 39.3% compared with the preceding fiscal year)
Profit Attributable to Owners of the Parent	369,508 million yen (an increase of 90.7% compared with the preceding fiscal year)

With respect to the world economy during this fiscal year, there remained uncertainties ahead, partly due to the impact of the U.S. tariff policy review on supply chains and rising geopolitical risks, including the U.S.–China conflict and the escalating tension in the Middle East; nevertheless, partly due to economic support underpinned by fiscal and monetary policies across countries and increased investment in technology-related fields such as generative AI, the economy generally remained resilient. Regarding the Japanese economy, despite price increases, partly because corporate capital expenditure increased, and employment and income conditions improved, the economy recovered moderately.

With respect to the business circumstances of the Group, in the Infocommunications sector, demand for products for data center-related markets significantly increased, while demand for wiring harnesses in the Automotive sector and for products such as power cables and substation equipment in the Environment and Energy sector remained steady. In this environment, in the consolidated financial settlement for this fiscal year, net sales increased from the preceding fiscal year to 5,110,171 million yen (preceding fiscal year: 4,679,789 million yen, +9.2%). With respect to income, in addition to increased sales, we worked to improve product mix, thoroughly improve productivity, reduce costs, and improve selling prices; as a result, operating income was 418,173 million yen (preceding fiscal year: 320,663 million yen, +30.4%) and ordinary income was 431,274 million yen (preceding fiscal year: 309,496 million yen, +39.3%), both of which exceeded the preceding fiscal year's results and achieved new record highs. The profit attributable to owners of the parent was 369,508 million yen (preceding fiscal year: 193,771 million yen, +90.7%), which greatly exceeded the preceding fiscal year's result, partly due to an extraordinary gain from the sale of shares of Sumitomo Densetsu Co., Ltd. We also made efforts to improve asset efficiency, such as reducing inventories and cross-shareholdings. As a result, ROIC (return on invested capital) before tax increased from the preceding fiscal year to 14.7% (preceding fiscal year: 9.3%).

The following section is a report outlining each segment.

Net sales increased by 97,436 million yen (compared with the preceding fiscal year: 9.0%) to 1,178,780 million yen, and operating income increased by 11,897 million yen to 90,615 million yen, due to the expansion of sales of products and services such as power cables, rectangular magnet wires for motors used in electric vehicles, substation equipment manufactured by Nissin Electric Co., Ltd., and electrical work performed by Sumitomo Densetsu Co., Ltd.

Net sales increased by 103,356 million yen (46.3%) to 326,632 million yen due to, against the backdrop of the expanding generative AI market, increased demand for optical wiring products, optical cables, and optical devices for data centers. Operating income increased by 57,509 million yen to 77,435 million yen partly due not only to increased sales but also to improved product mix and productivity.

Net sales increased by 202,438 million yen (7.4%) to 2,937,168 million yen, and operating income increased by 7,309 million yen to 179,700 million yen, due to steady demand for products such as wiring harnesses and anti-vibration rubbers.

Net sales increased by 31,848 million yen (8.4%) to 409,096 million yen due to increased demand from major customers for FPCs (flexible printed circuits). Operating income increased by 10,217 million yen to 39,528 million yen partly due not only to increased sales but also to improved productivity.

Net sales increased by 15,746 million yen (4.2%) to 388,413 million yen due to increased demand for cemented carbide products and diamond/CBN products. Operating income increased by 10,807 million yen to 31,399 million yen partly due not only to increased sales but also to cost reduction of sintered products.

(2) Conditions of Capital Expenditure

The total amount of capital expenditure for this fiscal year was 243.2 billion yen. The following list shows the breakdown of capital expenditure by segment.

Segment	Amount of Capital Expenditure (billions of yen)	Main Content of Capital Expenditure
Environment and Energy	51.6	Increased production of and rationalization investment in power system equipment such as power transmission wires/cables/equipment and substation equipment/control system
Infocommunications	23.7	Increased production of and rationalization investment in optical/wireless devices and optical fiber cables
Automotive	120.6	Increased production of and rationalization investment in wiring harnesses and anti-vibration rubbers
Electronics	28.2	Increased production of and rationalization investment in FPCs and electronic wires
Industrial Materials and Others	19.0	Increased production of and rationalization investment in cemented carbide tools and sintered powder metal parts

(Note)

The amounts of net sales and operating income of each segment indicate those amounts before the elimination of intersegment transactions, etc.

(3) Fundraising

The Group raised funds through means such as a long-term borrowing of 25.5 billion yen to be allocated to, among other things, capital expenditure and repayment of long-term borrowings and short-term borrowings.

(4) Key Issues Requiring Attention

Economic Situation Hereafter

Looking ahead, the global economy is expected to face disruptions in logistics and supply chains due to escalating tensions in the Middle East, as well as rising prices of raw materials and energy driven by soaring crude oil prices. Additionally, concerns persist regarding the U.S.'s review of its trade policies, the Chinese economic slowdown, etc., and it is anticipated that the business circumstances of the Group will continue to be unpredictable.

■ The Group's Efforts Hereafter

In these circumstances, aiming to realize the Group's ideal vision of becoming a "Glorious Excellent Company", the Group will work to improve our corporate values in a unified effort toward the realization of "living in safety and comfort on our green planet" set forth in the "Sumitomo Electric Group 2030 VISION," our long-term vision, and conduct management based on the Multistakeholder Capitalism ("Goho Yoshi" (Five-Way-Win)*), which means the steady return and distribution of positive outcomes to our stakeholders, i.e., "customers," "employees," "suppliers," "regional communities," and "shareholders/investors."

Specifically, as the second step toward realizing our long-term vision, we have formulated "Mid-term Management Plan 2028," which starts this fiscal year. In the three focus areas, "Digital and AI," "Energy," and "Mobility," as well as their integrated fields, we will demonstrate the Group's collective strength, accurately respond to global business environment trends, and capture demand related to green and digital fields, thereby aiming to achieve net sales of 6 trillion yen, operating profit of 600 billion yen, and ROIC before tax of 15% or higher in fiscal year 2028. Each business segment will advance the following initiatives accordingly.

Environment and Energy Segment

With regard to power cables, we will make efforts to capture domestic demand for replacement of facilities, among other things, and in addition to that, expand orders for projects related to renewable energy, as well as cross-national and cross-regional interconnection lines, which contribute to the decarbonization, and focus on launching new bases in Europe, cost reductions, quality improvement, development of new products, and strengthening project management. With regard to rectangular magnet wires for motors used in electric vehicles, we will make improvements in profitability through the reduction of costs and proceed with developing next-generation products that respond to electric vehicles becoming high-voltage. In addition, we will strive to create further synergies with Nissin Electric Co., Ltd., and with regard to substation equipment, we will work to ensure that domestic demand for replacement of facilities is captured, strengthen production capacity, and increase the development of and proposals for environmentally friendly products. With regard to ion implanter and electron beam processing system, we will work to expand sales in Japan and overseas.

Infocommunications Segment

While further expansion of data center-related markets due to rapid dissemination of generative AI is expected, we will focus on strengthening our production capacity for optical cables, optical wiring products such as optical connectors, optical devices, indium phosphide (InP) substrates, etc., as well as developing new products that achieve further higher-speed data transmission, lower latency, and lower power consumption, in order to ensure that these demands are captured, and make efforts to expand our business. In addition, we will continue and accelerate development and marketing of high-performance products that have environmentally-resistant performance including low power consumption, such as extra low-loss optical fibers for submarine optical cables, multi-core fibers of which the Company is the first in the world to achieve mass production, highly efficient wireless communication devices, and access network equipment that is increasingly adopting new methods, and we will make efforts to improve profitability by thorough reduction of costs.

Automotive Segment

In order for the Company, as a "connecting" partner for mobility systems, to expand the "connected" business, we will work to further reduce costs and thoroughly improve asset efficiency and further expand sales of aluminum harnesses corresponding to the needs of weight reduction, as well as push evolution of conventional harnesses such as automation of production and expansion of new designs and new methods of production that will lead to cost reduction. In addition, the Group will also make efforts to create and expand sales of new products that capture the market of CASE*, which is expected to expand in the future, such as high-voltage wiring harnesses for electric vehicles, and connectors for high-speed communication, by deepening collaboration within the Group and cooperation and partner relationships with customers. Moreover, we will work to create further synergies with Sumitomo Riko Company Limited, which was made a wholly owned subsidiary in February this year, and try to improve the profitability of the existing businesses in the field of automotive anti-vibration rubbers and hoses. In addition, we will work toward future business growth by focusing on developing new products for next-generation mobility systems.

Electronics Segment

We will accelerate marketing for FPC products that utilize fine circuit fabrication technology and CASE-compatible products and development of new products with high frequency characteristics, and thoroughly reduce costs. With regard to heat-resistant, high-performance electric wires, which utilize irradiation cross-linking technology, heat shrink tubes, and porous separation membrane systems, we will strive to expand business by capturing various customer needs. In addition, we will strive to strengthen our collaboration with TECHNO ASSOCIE Co., Ltd.

Industrial Materials Segment

With regard to cemented carbide products, we will surely capture the demand not only in the main automotive area but also in the areas of construction machines, agriculture machines, electronics, etc. by strengthening our global sales power and will proceed with new business development related to electric vehicles, aircrafts, semiconductors, renewable energy, etc. and will make efforts to expand our market share. In addition, we will work to strengthen our recycling capabilities aimed at stable procurement of tungsten raw materials. With regard to sintered products, we will aim to develop new products and further strengthen marketing for electric vehicles or non-automotive purposes and the cost competitiveness. With regard to prestressed concrete and precision spring steel wires, we will strive to improve profitability by strengthening global production and sales organization and developing new products.

Research and Development Activities

Aiming to revitalize and accelerate research and development as one of the key driving forces to create an extensive range of technologies, we will work on advancing and improving efficiency of materials development and process development utilizing DX*, as well as open innovation and collaboration with outside entities. Specifically, in order to develop the technologies of the current businesses, we will leverage partnership relationships with customers, by strengthening close collaboration with the Business Division and the Sales & Marketing Division, to address the three focus areas set forth in the Mid-term Management Plan. In the “Digital and AI” area, we will strive to make information transmission high-speed, large-capacity, compact, and energy-efficient; in the “Energy” area, we will strive to realize highly efficient long-distance power grids and large-capacity, low-loss power transmission systems; and in the “Mobility” area, we will strive to make the functionality of wire harnesses more advanced. Furthermore, as our challenge for new business areas, we will work on themes such as decarbonization-related technologies, circular economy-related technologies, and technologies related to quantum, semiconductors, and robotics.

1-3. Significant accounting policies

(1) Valuation methods for assets

(a) Securities

Held-to-maturity debt securities are stated at amortized cost.

Available-for-sale securities other than those without market values are stated at the fair value at the fiscal year end. Unrealized gains and losses, net of related taxes and non-controlling interests, are recognized as a separate component of net assets. Acquisition costs on sales are computed using average cost.

Available-for-sale securities without market values are stated at average cost.

(b) Derivatives

Derivative financial instruments are stated at fair value.

(c) Inventories

Inventories are mainly stated at the lower of average cost or net realizable value.

(2) Depreciation method of fixed assets

(a) Property, plant and equipment (excluding leased assets)

The straight-line method is applied.

(b) Leased assets

Leased assets related to finance leases which do not transfer ownership of the lease assets and right-of-use assets in consolidated subsidiaries that apply IFRS 16 "Leases" are depreciated by the straight-line method, assuming the lease period as the useful life and no residual value.

(3) Basis for allowance

Allowance for doubtful receivables

The allowance for doubtful receivables is provided based upon estimated uncollectible amounts for individually identified doubtful receivables and historical loss experience for other receivables.

(4) Basis for revenue and expense

The Company and its consolidated subsidiaries recognize the amount expected to be received in exchange for promised goods or services as revenue at the time when the control of the goods or services is transferred to the customer.

The main businesses of the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries are manufacture and sales of products in the following business segments: Environment and Energy, Infocommunications, Automotive, Electronics and Industrial Materials and Others. Revenue is recognized at the time when the control of the goods or services is transferred to the customer. The timing of domestic sales transactions is mainly at the time of the acceptance inspection by the customer or arrival at the customer. The timing of export sales transactions is mainly at the time when risks are transferred to the customer on the basis of trade terms such as incoterms. In the Environment and Energy segment, the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries operate the business of design and construction, such as the installation of products, as well as the manufacture and sales of the products. For construction contracts in which the performance obligation is satisfied over time, revenue is recognized based on the estimated progress towards the satisfaction of the performance obligation. The method used to estimate the progress towards the satisfaction of the performance obligation is the input method based on the ratio of the incurred costs to the total estimated costs, because incurred costs are considered to represent the progress of construction appropriately. For other contracts, revenue is recognized when the control of the goods or services is considered to be transferred, mainly on the completion of installation as the performance obligation is satisfied at that point in time. Consideration for the transaction is received mainly within one year from the satisfaction of the performance obligation and does not include a significant financing component.

(5) Other significant accounting policies

(a) Basis for retirement benefits

( i ) Method of attributing expected benefits to periods of service

When calculating retirement benefit obligations, the benefit formula basis is used for attributing expected retirement benefits to periods of service.

( ii ) Method of expenses for actuarial gains and losses and past service costs

Past service cost is amortized on a straight-line basis over certain periods within the average remaining service years of employees from the year in which it arises, or accounted for as an expense when it arises at some consolidated subsidiaries.

Actuarial gains and losses are amortized on a straight-line basis over certain periods within the average remaining service years of employees (mainly 14 years) from the year following the year in which they arise. At some consolidated subsidiaries, they are accounted for as an expense when they arise.

(b) Accounting for corporation tax and local corporation tax and tax effect accounting

The Company and its wholly owned domestic consolidated subsidiaries apply the group tax sharing system. (2) Basic information for understanding revenues

Please refer to “1-3. Significant accounting policies (4) Basis for revenue and expense”.

(3) Information for understanding the amount of revenue from the current fiscal year onward

(a) Contract balances

The following table shows the balances of receivables from contracts with customers, contract assets and contract liabilities.

(Millions of yen)

	FY 2024 (As of March 31, 2025)	FY 2025 (As of March 31, 2026)
Receivables from contracts with customers	880,451	932,945
Contract assets	31,467	15,267
Contract liabilities	97,456	113,584

The increase in contract assets was caused mainly by revenue recognition, and the decrease in contract assets was caused mainly by their transfer to trade receivables and exclusion of Sumitomo Densetsu Co., Ltd. from the scope of consolidation.

The increase in contract liabilities was caused mainly by the receipt of advances from customers and the decrease in contract liabilities was caused mainly by revenue recognition. Of the revenue recognized during the fiscal year ended March 31, 2026, ¥75,759 million was included in contract liabilities at the beginning of the fiscal year. And revenue recognized in relation to performance obligations satisfied or partially satisfied in past periods was not material.

Total	373,279

3. Accounting estimate

(Large construction projects)

(1) Amount recorded in the consolidated financial statements for the current fiscal year

The amount of sales was ¥1,178,780 million and the amount of provisions for loss on orders received was ¥1,003 million in the Environment and Energy segment.

(2) Other information that contributes to the understanding of accounting estimates

In the Environment and Energy segment, the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries operate the business of design and construction such as electrical/power supply work, engineering and installation of products as well as the manufacture and sales of the products.

In the recognition of revenue for construction contracts when the performance obligation is satisfied over time, revenue is recognized over time based on the estimated progress towards the satisfaction of that performance obligation. If it is possible to measure the outcome of the performance obligation reasonably, the method used to estimate the progress towards the satisfaction of the performance obligation is the input method based on the ratio of the actual costs to the total estimated costs. If it is not possible to measure the outcome of the performance obligation reasonably, revenue is recognized only to the extent of actual costs incurred.

Regarding orders received for constructions where the total construction costs are more likely to exceed the total construction revenue at the end of the consolidated fiscal year and the amount can be reasonably estimated, the provision is recognized for losses expected to be incurred in the next consolidated fiscal year onward.

When estimating the total construction cost, the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries calculate the appropriate cost after considering the entire content of the work to be performed according to the customer's specifications, and review the estimate in a timely manner in response to any change in the situation after receiving the order. However, regarding long-term construction projects, such as projects for the installation of high-voltage direct current cables for interconnections among national and regional power electric utilities or offshore wind power business, if additional costs are incurred and exceed the estimate as of the end of the consolidated fiscal year because of unexpected circumstances such as an extension of the construction period or an increase in man-hours due to other unforeseen changes in the content of the work, etc., progress of cost reduction activities, or additional costs due to soaring outsourcing costs and personnel expenses and soaring material prices or transportation costs resulting from the international situation, the profit and loss of the next consolidated fiscal year may be affected.
